The benchmark comprises the top quartile of stocks which are selected from the MSCI Emerging Markets Index (Net Return), using a selection process that applies four investment style factors (quality, value, momentum and low volatility).

Derivatives and techniques The Fund may use derivatives for hedging and efficient portfolio management.

Strategy The investment manager seeks to minimise the difference between the fund’s performance and that of the benchmark (tracking error), regardless of whether the benchmark level rises or falls.

Historical data may not be a reliable indication of the future risk profile of the Fund. The category shown is not guaranteed to remain unchanged and may shift over time.

The lowest category does not mean risk free.

Why is the Fund in this specific category?

The Fund intends to track the performance of the Underlying Index which is comprised of 200 stocks selected from the MSCI Emerging Markets Index (Net Return). Such assets have historically been subject to price movements due to such factors as general stock market volatility, changes in the financial outlook or fluctuations in currency markets. As a result, the performance of the Fund can fluctuate considerably over time.

Risks materially relevant not adequately captured by the indicator:

Counterparty risk: the risk of failure of financial institutions or agents (when serving as a counterparty to financial contracts) to perform their obligations, whether due to insolvency, bankruptcy or other causes.

Derivative Instruments risk: the risk of loss in an instrument where a small change in the value of the underlying investment may have a larger impact on the value of such instrument. Derivatives may involve additional liquidity, credit and counterparty risks.

Secondary market trading risk: the risk that the shares purchased on the secondary market cannot usually be sold directly back to the Fund and that investors may therefore pay more than the NAV per share when buying shares or may receive less than the current NAV per Share when selling shares.
